

International Steiner Waldorf Parents Network (ISWPN)

ISWPN is a forum for the mutual support of parents through the exchange of ideas and experiences concerning Steiner Waldorf education. We encourage parents interested in Steiner Waldorf education to participate. The main meeting point is at this website: www.waldorfparents.net

Fundamental aims of ISWPN:

1. ISWPN is founded on the principle that parents have a right to choose the appropriate education for their children. In this lies the recognition that education is a cultural activity where freedom is a high ideal and also a human right!
2. ISWPN holds the view that the free choice of education implies that financial support should be equal for all educational settings.
3. ISWPN supports the living and evolving pedagogical impulse based on Rudolf Steiner's ideas.
4. ISWPN supports the understanding that children's education relies on solid cooperation between parents and teachers.
5. ISWPN is committed to developing appropriate processes and structures to support these aims.
